SUPPORT MEASURE EE

Measure EE is LAUSD's bond measure appearing on the June 4, 2019, ballot that calls for a 16 cents per square foot parcel tax. An analysis indicates most homeowners will pay between $100 and $450 more a year; the larger the property, the more you pay. The bond will raise $400 to $500 million annually to lower class sizes, add counselors and nurses, and cover the recently negotiated pay raises. Otherwise, the District will continue making draconian cuts to the tune of $749 million by 2021-22 to meet the reserve benchmarks required by law. Failure to do so could lead to the Los Angeles County Office of Education removing the authority of the Board, taking over the District, and making unilateral cuts.

There is no doubt that the students of the Los Angeles Unified School District deserve more and better than they currently receive. As administrators we know how much more we could do if every school with only one administrator (the principal) had an assistant principal. Stories abound regarding how School Support Administrators and Unit J members are continuously cut while those "fortunate" enough to stay in place at Beaudry and the Local Districts have their workload tripled and quadrupled, and their basis reduced while their supervisors take no cuts whatsoever. Moreover, there should be no cogent person out there arguing against the merits of lower class sizes, more services to promote the sound minds and bodies of our students, and their access to state-of-the-art libraries.

Despite AALA's support for Measure EE, a member best addresses the elephant in the Measure EE room:

*My first instinct was Oh hell to the NO! We are one tax away from slipping from the middle class to poverty! Give me the ballot so I can vociferously vote NO! I then called my best friend to continue my rant and enlist his support so he could, in turn, convince everyone we know to vote NO!

My friend listened to my emotional dump and a mathematical conversation ensued. He calculated that if Measure EE passes, my home's parcel tax would be approximately $316.80 more a year. He then asked me how much I pay for District healthcare coverage. I told him, and then he reminded me had the labor partners been unsuccessful in the last healthcare negotiations and forced to agree to the District's proposal to charge a 20% healthcare premium, I would now be paying $220 every month.

The $220 monthly premium is a sobering number considering, if it were in place, I would be taking home $2,640.00 less a year. For a moment, it did seem rational to support Measure EE. Then I shot back by highlighting the measure's language that does right by the teachers and students we serve, but says nothing about healthcare for all employees remaining whole.

He agreed and went on to say supporting and passing Measure EE could potentially set up the labor partners for success when the current healthcare package ends in December of 2020. He argued that even if the District wanted to impose a premium or “other cost saving opportunities” detrimental to us, the labor partners could always point to the additional dollars in LAUSD’s coffers as an antidote to whatever proposals they made. He highlighted there would be no tangible financial leverage the labor partners could use if Measure EE fails.

He did give me something to think about, and I was almost a convert until I received a dreaded email “inviting” me to an emergency meeting at the Local District to discuss everything I need to do as a principal to “get the word out to my school community” about Measure EE.

As I sat there simmering and sulking (with my best posture and professional poker face so my supervisors would never know what I was really thinking and feeling) I came to a crossroad. Either I am all in and earnestly supporting the measure or not.

I have decided that while I am not jumping up and down in support of Measure EE, I am earnestly committed to voting YES, and spreading the word to my school community about the measure’s merits, and walking the fine line of keeping my choice to myself, and enthusiastically encouraging eligible voters to vote their conscience on June 4, 2019. Paying $316 for the additional parcel tax is a chance I am willing to take because not doing so could have a greater and negative financial risk to my overall well-being.

AALA thanks our member for sharing his visceral reaction, and journey from NO to YES. Hopefully, this testimonial will give you pause to reflect and realize the greater financial implications that can come to a wallet near you if the measure fails. Already, the measure is being smeared and facing heavy opposition from the business community.

The Los Angeles Area Chamber of Commerce, the County Business Federation, along with the Valley Industry and Commerce Association and the Howard Jarvis Taxpayers Association, have joined together to oppose Measure EE. This presents a major hurdle for the District as bond proposals require a two-thirds majority to pass. Initially, the Chamber of Commerce had indicated it would support the measure, but the LAUSD Board changed the language from having every property owner pay the same tax to one that is based on square footage, causing the Chamber to change its position and raise the ire of commercial real estate owners. A ballot statement that will be mailed to voters this month reads in part, “LAUSD WASTES OUR MONEY: District bureaucrats and defenders of the failed status quo want taxpayers to bail out a school district with a history of red ink, appalling education results, declining enrollment, runaway administrative hiring and exploding retirement and health care costs. REFORMS MUST COME FIRST.”

The hypocrisy of the Los Angeles business community wanting an educated workforce at no cost to them shows their true colors. A quality education to meet the varied needs and demands of today’s students requires all of us to pay our fair share. The stage is set for yet another David versus Goliath showdown at the ballot box between special interests not caring about the diversity of the students of the Los Angeles Unified School District, and those of us who always have and always will.

The Associated Administrators of Los Angeles is proud to stand on the right side of history by supporting the passage of Measure EE. In this moment, in this time, it is the only vehicle to best meet the needs of the students we serve and the administrators we represent.

THE VOTE IS IN! UNIT J APPROVES THE CONTRACT!

With all votes counted, 100% of the members in good standing who cast a ballot approved the Tentative Agreement (TA) between AALA and LAUSD. The next steps are:

1. AALA forwards the results of the ratification vote to the Superintendent and the Board of Education.
2. AALA will request that ratification of the TA be placed on the Board's Order of Business for April 23, 2019.
3. The effective date of retroactive pay and rate adjustments will be announced shortly thereafter.

If you have not viewed the TA, please click HERE. Contract deletions are shown by strike outs; new sections and subsections are underlined.

HEALTHCARE FAQs—
MAKE THE MOST OF YOUR DOCTOR'S APPOINTMENT

Article reprinted from NIH News in Health, June 2015, with questions added and minor text edits.

Why is talking with your doctor important?

Patients and healthcare providers share a very personal relationship. Doctors need to obtain quite a bit of information about you, your family, and your lifestyle to give you the best medical care. And you need to speak up and share your concerns and questions. Clear and honest communication between you and your physician can help you both make smart choices about your health.

How do I prepare for the visit?

Begin with some preparation. Before your health exam, make a list of any concerns and questions you have. Bring this list to your appointment, so you won't forget anything. Do you have a new symptom? Have you noticed side effects from your medicines? Do you want to know the meaning of a certain word? Don't wait for the doctor to bring up a certain topic, because he or she may not know what's important to you. Speak up with your concerns.

I feel embarrassed and uncomfortable about some topics. What should I do?

Even if the topic seems sensitive or embarrassing, it's best to be honest and upfront with your healthcare provider. You may feel uncomfortable talking about sexual problems, memory loss, or bowel issues, but these are all important to your health. It is better to be thorough and share too much information than to be quiet or shy about what you're thinking or feeling. Remember, your doctor is used to talking about all kinds of personal matters.

I get stressed when I go for a doctor's visit and might forget what was discussed. How can I overcome this?

Consider taking along a family member or friend when you visit the doctor. Your companion can help if there are language or cultural differences between you and your doctor. If you feel unsure about a topic, the other person can help you describe your feelings or ask questions on your behalf. It also helps to have someone else's perspective. Your friend may think of questions or raise concerns that you had not considered.

Is it helpful to look up symptoms on the web?

Many people search online for health information. They use web-based tools to research symptoms and learn about different illnesses. However, you cannot diagnose your own condition or someone else's based on a web search. Rather, use web information as a way to plan your visit with the doctor. Ask your doctor to recommend specific websites or resources, so you know you are getting your facts from a trusted source. Federal agencies are among the most reliable sources of online health information.

What's a good way to keep track of my doctor visits and lab test results?

Many healthcare providers now use electronic health records. Ask your doctor how to access your records, so you can keep track of test results, diagnoses, treatment plans, and medicines. These records can also help you prepare for your next appointment.

What are some postappointment tips?

After your appointment, if you're uncertain about any instructions or have other questions call or email your healthcare provider. Don't wait until your next visit to make sure you understand your diagnosis, treatment plan, or anything else that might affect your health. Your body is complicated and there is much to consider, so make sure you do everything you can to get the most out of your medical visits.

NATIONAL UNIVERSITY – SCHOLARSHIPS FOR DISTRICT EMPLOYEES

AALA has entered into an agreement with National University to provide any LAUSD employee an "Affiliation Scholarship" which will equal a 15 percent discount on the course tuition rate in existence at the time of registration for that course. The 15 percent scholarship is guaranteed, but only applies to the then-current tuition, and does not apply to other fees or charges. This may be used for any course whether on campus or online with the exception of those in the nursing or radiation therapy fields.

For each LAUSD employee enrolled as a student at the university, the 15 percent guaranteed scholarship will remain in force for the duration of the student's academic time at the university, notwithstanding the termination of the agreement with AALA, provided the student does not miss two or more consecutive academic periods.

For additional information and to take advantage of the 15 percent scholarship for courses taken at National University contact:

STATUS OF CALIFORNIA WOMEN

Since 2012, the Center for the Advancement of Women at Mt. St. Mary's University has produced an annual Report on the Status of Women and Girls in California, which has chronicled where women are flourishing and where they are falling behind in the state. This year's report focused on women in the work force and examined why certain obstacles and biases continue to undermine professional opportunities for California's women.

Key statistics about California women:

- Women make up 50% of the state's population or 19,758,786 and 46% of its employed workforce.
- Ethnic breakdown: Latina – 38%; White – 37%; Asian American – 15%; African American – 6%; Others – 4%
- Median age is 37.5 years: White – 47.4; Asian American – 40.9; African American – 38; Latina – 29.7
- 45% are married: Asian American – 56%; White – 48%; Latina – 42%; African American – 25%

- 15% live at the poverty level or below: African American – 23%; Latina – 21%; Asian American – 12%; White – 10%
- 53% are employed: Asian American – 55%; African American – 53%; Latina – 53%; White – 52%
- Median earnings for all women is $45,489: White - $57,506; Asian American - $55,480; African American - $43,257; Latina - $31,122

Highlights of the report:

Occupational sex segregation is still an issue. Women are overrepresented in healthcare, social work, and education fields and in personal assistant and support roles. They are underrepresented in politics, private sector leadership, and in the STEM fields. Full-time working women make 88 cents for every dollar men make in the same jobs. The report also takes an in-depth look at gender pay equity in the workforce, sexual harassment, and gender role expectations. To view the entire report, click HERE.

CHANGES IN STATE DEMOGRAPHICS

The 2018-2019 school year has shown the largest decline in K-12 public school enrollment in five years, according to data released by the state last week. The decline is most prevalent in traditional public schools while charter school enrollment has actually increased. More than 34,000 fewer students are enrolled this year than last, with total enrollment dropping from 6.2 million in 2014-15 to 6.19 million in 2018-19. Charter school enrollment went from 544,980 to 652,933 during the same time period. There continues to be a significant gap between the percent of English learners and students with disabilities that the two systems enroll. California has one of the highest rates of low-income and English learner students, yet one of the lowest per-pupil funding rates. The percentage of Latino students and those classified as low income is increasing as the numbers of white and African American students decline. Another interesting demographic trend is that by 2030, only 20% of Californians will be under 18, compared with 33% in 1970, portending a significant impact on the state's economy.

DEADLINE APPROACHING FOR AALA ADMINISTRATORS OF THE YEAR

ALUMNI LUNCHEON

Have you sent in your reservation for the AALA Spring Alumni Luncheon on Wednesday, April 24, 2019? It will be a great event with food, fellowship, prizes, and guest speaker Jackie Goldberg. The cost is just $45 for family style lunch at Maggiano's Little Italy at The Grove. Please mail your check payable to AALA to 1910 W. Sunset Blvd., Suite 850, Los Angeles, CA 90026. INVEST IN THE FUTURE

As you are aware, AALA members and others may make donations to Friends of AALA to support the annual scholarships that are awarded to deserving LAUSD students annually. But did you know that donations can also be made in memory or honor of an administrator or a family member? These donations can be as a one-time memorial or honorary scholarship or can be a perpetual scholarship. Currently, perpetual scholarships have been established in the names of Dr. William Johnston, Nellie and Bernard Kleiner, Jack Moscovitz, Dr. Judith Perez, and Jack Silas.

Another way to support Friends of AALA, which gives at least $50,000 in scholarships annually, is to make it a beneficiary in a will and/or living trust. All donations are tax deductible to the fullest extent allowed by law and 100% goes directly for scholarships and recognition activities for LAUSD students. Should you have any questions regarding making a donation to Friends of AALA, please call Javier Melendez in the AALA office, 213.484.2226, or email him at jmelendez@aala.us. We appreciate your support.
